KING ROSS, RULER OF COMIC OPERA KINGDOM IS DEAD

King Was Descendant of the Scotch Adventurer Who Set Himself up as Ruler

His Was a Kingdom That Put Romance Into Real Life and Real Life Into Romance—Island a Diminutive Emerald World.

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Jan. 25.—(By Mail).—The news that King Ross of the Cocos Islands has laid him down in the shade of the palms and died was cabled here today. The brief message rings down the curtain upon the last act of the first ruler of the real, original Comic Opera Kingdom—The Land of Cocos—which lies upon the shimmering silver lap of the South Seas, a diminutive emerald world in a setting of pink coral reefs. Andy Ross was a Scotch adventurer who, after a roving youth, discovered and decided to cast his lot as king with the motley inhabitants of the little story book kingdom. From 1827 until his death he was the oldest king, with the queerest subjects and the most extraordinary domain in all the world. His was a kingdom where the arrival of Sinbad the Sailor, Alice in Wonderland, Gulliver and The Boy Who Could Not Learn To Shiver and Shake would not have seemed unusual. His was a kingdom that put Romance into Real Life and Real Life into Romance. The Cocos Islands is distinctly an O. Henry land, a place such as Gilbert & Sullivan saw only in fancy, a spot that a Robert Louis Stevenson would be loth to leave.

Ross was king, court, government and owner of the group of Indian Ocean isles, twenty in all, whose only excitement in history occurred during the present war—the destruction of the German cruiser Emden by the Australian battleship Sydney, off the Cocos coast.

King Ross was the third of his line. In 1823, an English adventurer named Alexander Haro settled in the islands with a number of slaves given him by an Indian potentate. Two years later Ross, a Scotchman, rediscovered the islands and determined to colonize them. He returned in 1827 with a party of Scotch and found Haro in possession. The two factions settled by dividing the islands equally. Finally, however, the natives swore allegiance to Ross and he and his descendants have ruled their story-book kingdom ever since.

Interspersed with palm covered atolls and flanked by reefs of pink coral, the picturesque little group of islands is more like a scene from a musical comedy than anything else. In 1856 the British government extended protection to the Cocos. In 1865 Parliament sent a commission to investigate conditions there. When the British warship with the commission on board steamed into the lagoon at Direction Island, the inhabitants and the king and his court welcomed them just like a comic-opera-South-

Washington, Jan. 25 (By United Press).—The latest German note on the Lusitania incident reached the white house having been sent to the state department by Ambassador Bernstorff. It was officially stated that the announcement that the German note meets all of the United States demands "was purely supposition and unjustified by the facts." It was revealed that the note was delivered to Secretary of State Lansing by Ambassador Bernstorff Saturday and by Lansing to President Wilson yesterday. The latter today placed it before his cabinet.

The most important features of stories to which the state department is understood to object are those telling that Germany has refrained from mentioning her warning to United States citizens to stay off the Lusitania and her modification of her refusal to concede wrong doing on the part of the submarine commander.

NEW CAMPAIGN FROM AIR INAUGURATED BY TEUTONS

Four German Raids on English Ports Mark Beginning of Campaign

London, Jan. 25. (By United Press).—Four German raids on English channel ports in 48 hours and the bombardment of numerous villages behind the French line, marked the inauguration of a new teuton campaign from the air. An official statement of the admiralty today reported a raid of two German aeroplanes on the French sea port of Dunkirk at six o'clock this morning.

The admiralty added that a German aeroplane, possibly one of those engaged in the Dunkirk attack, was shot down by a British aviator at eight o'clock at Neuport, 25 miles from Dunkirk and a short distance from the German line. The Dunkirk raid followed two bombardment expeditions to English coast towns and an attempted attack on Dover yesterday afternoon in which the German was driven off by British airmen. The type of machine used by the teutons in their latest attacks has not been reported in official statements issued in London or Berlin.

Sea-Island-King would be expected to do.

The Palace was thrown open to the Europeans; and the royal family, its retinue and Malay servants in their all was at the disposal of the men from civilization.

All the people of the island group are of more than ordinarily powerful physique, muscular and lithe; quite Jack Londonish, in fact. The brown skinned natives speak their own language with a Scottish accent. The white royalty speaks the native tongue too. Even the King himself knew little of the English tongue that his forefathers used. The chief industry is copra and coral gathering. There is no metal money. The King decided at first that Money is the Root of All Evil, so he issued cards and not too many of them. The Kingdom is administered on model lines. The King makes his own laws, polices his domain and provides everything for his subjects.

The cruiser Emden was sunk off the islands, the survivors of the crew commandeered the royal yacht and embarked for Sumatra. Aside from this, the only other excitement the islands have had is cyclones. The natives, King, royalty and all, outmaneuver nature on these occasions by rushing into the lagoons and standing in water up to their necks until the blow subsides.

CRYSTAL SPRINGS CLUB CONSTRUCTS LARGE DEER PARK

N W Park Will Greatly Add to Beauty and Attractiveness of Club's Grounds

Park When Completed Will Cost $1500—Crystal Springs Will Have Most Complete Sporting Club in This Section of the State.

The Crystal Springs Golf and Gun club have started work on the construction of a large deer park on their lands in the mountains, which when completed will make the holdings of the club one of the most attractive spots of the picturesque mountains. The camp as it now stands is the finest in this region, being equipped with all the modern improvements of a city home.

The deer park which is now under construction is situated directly in front of the lodge which will afford the visitors an excellent view. It consists of thirty acres of wooded land and will be enclosed with a twelve foot fence of wire. It is the intention of the committee in charge to purchase eight deer, 2 bucks and six does, and place them in the park. In five years the number of deer will be about forty.

This park will be the first one of its sort in this section and the only one within a radius of fifty miles, the nearest one being situated at Westover. The work is under the supervision of a committee composed of F. C. Harris, H. P. Dowler, Leslie Stewart and George M. Reiser. Mr. Stewart being a civil engineer and having much experience in such work, has chosen an ideal location for the park and has worked out in detail the plans for it.

The blue prints, plans and specifications are now in the hands of the committee in charge. The estimate cost of the construction of this new feature of the club is about $1500. It will greatly add to the value of the property of the association which is now valued at $1000.

The property of the club consists of four hundred acres of fine land upon which is found the best hunting and fishing on the mountain. The club house is the most modern of any sporting club in central Pennsylvania, being equipped with hot and cold water and other modern improvements which are found in few of the hunting camps. The lodge is a large frame building, thirty two feet square with large porches on three sides.

Already a large fish pond has been constructed in which there is now over two thousand large brook trout, the sizes ranging from eight to fourteen inches. The pond which was

LARGE PERCENTAGE OF GIRLS WORK IN INDUSTRIAL PLANTS

Reports Show Nearly Three Million Girls Are Engaged in Various Pursuits

Largest Number are Employed in Clothing Factories—Over Fifty Thousand Work in Textile Establishments.

Harrisburg, January 25.—Almost 10 percent of all women and girls over 14 years old in Pennsylvania were employed in 20,571 industrial establishments that submitted reports to the bureau of statistics and information of the department of labor and industry during 1914.

The reports show that 2,162,999 females, of whom 14,187 were between the ages of 14 and 16, were on the payrolls of Pennsylvania industrial plants. This record does not include every industrial plant within the state and completely excludes mercantile establishments and professional offices where many thousands of women are employed. The Federal census report for 1910 set forth that there were at that time approximately 2,500,000 females in Pennsylvania over 14 years of age.

According to the statistics compiled for 1914 under direction of Labor Commissioner John Price Jackson, there are 67,166 women in this state engaged in the manufacture of clothing. More women are employed in that industry than in any other.

Textile establishments employ 50,253 women; tobacco factories 24,395; food and kindred products establishments, 11,198; metal plants, 10,611; laundries, 8121; printing plants, 7806; leather and rubber goods mills, 6647; paper and paper products factories, 6369; chemical works, 3227; clay, glass and stone industries, 1877; wood working plants, 1957; industries allied with building trades, 660; agriculture, forestry and fisheries, 363; liquors and beverage production, 262; mines and quarries, 60; engineering and laboratory service, 22. In addition to that classification there are 8538 women engaged in miscellaneous industrial employments.

Under the classification for clothing manufacture, 27,930 women make hosiery; 7621 make men's furnishing goods, 3567 men's other forms of apparel and 5870 work on women's clothing. Corset manufacture keeps 929 women employed.

In the various industrial pursuits, 1209 women aid in the making of patent medicines; 145 help make brick and tile; 356 manufacture glass bottles; 4291 make candy; 1462 pickle, preserves, and canned fruit and vegetables; 393 do engraving; 4530 make boots and shoes; 821 build cigar boxes; 270 work on coffin manufacture; 1050 make umbrellas and parasols; 2138 are engaged in machinery manufacture; 399 make needles, pens, hooks and eyes; 453 make watches and clocks; 22863 women made cigars while 1090 rolled cheroots and stogies.

SERVICES TO GOVERNMENT PATRIOTIC SHOWMAN OFFERS

Sword Swallower Would Enlist in the Marine Corps in Case of War

Chicago, Ills., Jan. 25.—As a proof to friends of his unhyphenated devotion to the land of his adoption, Signor Gregorio Carcutti, a sword-swallower and cannon-ball juggler well-known to thousands of side-show followers, today offered his services to the United States Marine corps in the event of this country being plunged into a foreign war.

Sergeant Louie W. Putnam, of the local recruiting office of the Marine corps of South State street, received Carcutti's application and entered the patriotic showman's name on his list of possible war-time volunteers. "Now if we could only get Bosco, who eats 'em alive, to volunteer," Sergeant Putnam mused, "I'd feel that the United States Marine corps was pretty well prepared for any eventuality."

FAIR COMMITTEE ADOPTS PLAN FOR CARRYING ON WORK

Will Secure Signatures on Instrument Negotiable at Local Bank

Guarantors Will be Obligated Only to Contribute Pro-Rata in Case Budget Falls Below Total Amount of Guarantee.

The finance committee named by the chamber of commerce to secure a sufficient guarantee for the Agricultural Fair to be held here next fall, met and organized yesterday, electing George McLaughlin as chairman. It was the opinion of the committee that no difficulty will be experienced in securing the necessary signatures to the guarantee, and it was agreed to begin work immediately following the meeting of the general fair committee next Friday morning.

The tentative plan adopted by the finance committee is to secure responsible signatures to an instrument upon which funds can be negotiated at the local banks sufficient to carry forward the preliminary work of the fair, to be repaid out of moneys received by the fair association. No cash contribution will be asked of the guarantors, who will agree only to make up any deficit existing at the close of the fair. Then they obligated only to contribute pro-rata, and not the full amount of the subscription if the deficit falls below the total amount of the guarantee.

A sub-committee composed of Albert Bigler, Wm. M. Poyce and C. P. Jacobs was named to meet Friday with the general committee composed of representatives from the Agricultural society, Farmers Grange, the Chamber of Commerce, and a committee of citizens.

At the Friday meeting final plans for the organization of a fair association will be laid before the committee.

BACK TO THE PARTY

It is essential to a complete realization of the significance of the call just issued by leading citizens of Philadelphia for a union of all Republicans in the coming campaign to understand that it is addressed to independent Republicans as well as to those voters who ceased to be Republicans in 1912, when they joined the third party movement headed by Colonel Roosevelt. All of the signers of that call have been active participants in reform politics in this city, they have been the mainstay of more than one of the local independent parties brought into being to liberate the city government from the thrall of a contractor overlordship. But they have never ceased to be Republicans, for they have consistently declined to recognize in the contractor bosses and their machine the "Republican party." On the contrary, they have invariably proceeded on the assumption that Senator Root accurately diagnosed the real situation here when he described the organization bosses as "masquerading as Republicans."

Under the circumstances, therefore, there is nothing surprising or inconsistent in their present attitude, and their appeal for a union of all Republican elements in the face of the national crisis created by the near approach of the presidential primaries and the election is in every respect proper and patriotic. The issues to be then decided are a national land call for an alignment along national lines, and it is eminently appropriate that within their own party they should do what the National committee of the Progressive party has already done; that is, call for a union of all the forces opposed to the political and economic policies of the national Democratic administration. These men believe that if the internal organization of the Republican party is to be controlled in the interest of clean, progressive Republican policies, it is especially important that clean, progressive and conscientious voters shall bear their share in determining who shall be the leaders and the representatives of their party.

To this end, therefore, they call upon local independents to reassert their Republicanism where Republicanism counts—namely, in the primaries. Only by this means can they make their influence felt and insure a representation and a leadership in the National convention responsive to the new spirit now manifesting itself among former and present Progressives. Life Colonel Roosevelt, they are convinced that the paramount duty of the hour is the defeat of President Wilson and the installation of an administration that will take up the task of safeguarding the honor and the industrial interests of the nation in a spirit in sympathy with the traditions and methods which laid the foundations of the nation's prosperity. In taking this position the local reformers merely prove the sincerity of their position; they will not be diverted from their patriotic purpose by the sneers of covert enemies, who seek to make capital out of the co-operation of politicians of the organization. Republicans who have the larger interests of party and nation at heart are seeking now to magnify the points of unity not the petty factional differences of ambitious individuals. They are seeking to emulate the spirit which prompted the recent overtures of the Progressives, and they will find support and encouragement for their efforts among all genuine Republicans.—Public Ledger.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

"From Dover, Folkestone, Brighton and Portsmouth, all war-lanes across the English Channel lead to Boulogne the great port for the western Entente battle line, safe behind the long rows of trenches in the north and made the principal point for import from England and vast stores of munitions and a steady stream of troops," begins a primer just prepared by the National Geographic Society, which describes the harbor to which the war has brought its most brisk import business. "Boulogne is a really important point in the line opposing the Germans in the West; it is the funnel through which the British Empire is pouring its contribution to the energies expended on the first of the war theatres.

"The French port, always very English and now almost as cosmopolitan as Paris, lies upon the narrowest stretch of the Channel, 22 miles southwest of Calais, and only 28 miles by sea southeast of the busy English harbor of Folkestone. Paris, with which the city is connected by a brilliant express service over the tracks of the Northern Railway, lies 187 miles in the south-southeast. Portsmouth-Boulogne is the most direct line of communication between the great British arsenal and the firing line through Flanders, Artois, Picardy and Champagne. The River Liane divides the town, and the improvements at its mouth provide excellent harbors for the usual stream of shipping that the war has brought about.

"Boulogne has always had more or less close relations with England, friendly and unfriendly. It has even been suggested that it was the Portus Itius where Julius Caesar assembled his fleet. In modern times, Boulogne has been the Englishman's favorite way into France, and before the war, the passengers from Folkestone to Boulogne totaled about 300,000 annually. The trans-Atlantic liners of the Hamburg-American and the Holland-American companies, also, made Boulogne a calling point. English business interests in France were largely represented at this port, and the English colony at the outbreak of the war numbered more than 1,500. It has long been said that Boulogne is the most English city on the continent, and, before the war was many months old, the English language and English ways became the accepted currency of the place.

"In 1804, Napoleon I selected Boulogne as the starting point for an invasion of England. He assembled an army of 100,000 men and a vast assortment of war-stores here for this purpose. The invincible general was so certain that England was fated to fall before his genius that he had coins struck with which to pay his soldiers on the other side of the Channel and inscribed them 'minted in London.' He also began a colossal project to realize his dream of his most troublesome opponent, Marshal Scott, Ney, Davoust and Victor were to lead the invaders. The harbors of Boulogne were completely hidden under the hulks of the many vessels, upon which the expedition was to be transported. A flotilla of 2,413 craft of all sizes had been gathered at the port.

"Preparations for the invasion were admirably made, an dthe troops waited only for the coming of the protecting French fleets from Antwerp, Brest, Cadix, and the harbors of the Mediterranean to convey them to the island battlefields. The units of these fleets had been in the course of construction for several years for the express purpose of siding in the decision against England; for the Little Corporal, willing to divide the world with Alexander of Russia, knew from the beginning that his interests and those of Britain could never be reconciled. The French fleets never assembled at Boulogne, and the victory of Nelson at Trafalgar, in 1805, forever shattered Napoleon's hopes for the invasion. The column or victory, however, was finished in 1811, and it is crowned by a fine statue of the Emperor.

"Boulogne was an important commercial harbor before the present war. It ranked fourth among the seaports of France, after Marseilles, Le Havre, and Bordeaux. It imported jute, wool, skins, thread, coal, timber, iron and steel for the factories of highly industrial northern France; and it exported woven goods, skins, motor-cars, forage, cement and wines. It also, assembled the fancy vegetables and fine table fruits for the London hotels for export. The average annual value of its exports was $50,000,000, and that of its imports $30,000,000. It was the first fishing port of France, receiving and preparing great quantities of herring and mackerel. A large proportion of the best grades of Spanish mackerel sold in the world's markets bear the trade marks of Boulogne. The most important manufacture of this great war-port during peace times, strange to say, is that of steel pens, which industry was introduced from England in 1846. It is the chief city in France for this manufacture, and, therefore, probably its greatest fame should be that of pointing the most brilliant pens in the world's most brilliant country."

A well-known authority on stomach trouble and indigestion nearly always due to excess of stomach-acid and not to lack of it, as is commonly believed, from a lack of knowledge of the fact that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, then our stomachs secrete a large amount of gastric juice in a can, fermenting and gases which induce indigestion, like a toy balloon. We have a heavy, lumpy feeling in the stomach, cructate sour food, belching, heartburn, flatulence, water brash, nausea.

He tells us to take five aids and in a few days the stomach will be in good shape. He says to take a tablespoonful of water before each meal, fermenting, and this will continue this for a few days. It follows the first step, important to medical science, move the gas-mobilizing liver, stimulate the stomach to promote a free flow of juices.

What Makes So Many Families Like Golden Sun?

Some like it for its flavor, some for its uniformity, some for the absence of the bitter taste sometimes found in coffee, and every body likes its popular price.

All of these merits will undoubtedly appeal to you. But there's a bare possibility that Golden Sun Coffee will satisfy you no more than the one you now drink. If you are fully satisfied, don't change; if you are not, try our brand of Golden Sun Coffee.

No one coffee can suit all tastes, but nine families in ten who try it prefer this Golden Sun Coffee—the chance is that you will, too. But you can't tell until you try it. Golden Sun Coffee is steel cut by the Golden Sun process. Ask your grocer for it.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—Shipyard orders for the Delaware River have come so far ahead that ships can not be promised under two or three years.

It is said to be the first time in the history of this port that the shipbuilders have been unable to accept orders for delivery within the usual period. The amount of work now in the yards is estimated at more than $50,000,000 and a number of contracts about to be closed brings the total far above this sum.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburg Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a teaspoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grippe, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus creating a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

KING ROSS, RULER OF COMIC OPERA KINGDOM IS DEAD

King Was Descendant of the Scotch Adventurer Who Set himself up as Ruler

His Was a Kingdom That Put Romance Into Real Life and Real Life
Into Romance—Island a Diminutive
Emerald World.

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Jan. 25.—(By Mail).—The news that King Ross of the Cocos Islands has laid him down in the shade of the palms and died was cabled here today. The brief message rings down the curtain upon the last act of the first ruler of the real, original Comic Opera Kingdom—The Land of Cocos—which lies upon the shimmering silver lap of the South Seas, a diminutive emerald world in a setting of pink coral reefs. Andy Ross was a Scotch adventurer who, after a roving youth, discovered and decided to cast his lot as king with the motley inhabitants of the little story book kingdom. From 1827 until his death he was the oldest king, with the queerest subjects and the most extraordinary domain in all the world. His was a kingdom where the arrival of Sinbad the Sailor, Alice in Wonderland, Gulliver and The Boy Who Could Not Learn To Shiver and Shake would not have seemed unusual. His was a kingdom that put Romance into Real Life and Real Life into Romance. The Cocos Islands is distinctly an O. Henry land, a place such as Gilbert & Sullivan saw only in fancy, a spot that a Robert Louis Stevenson would be loth to leave.

Ross was king, court, government and owner of the group of Indian Ocean isles, twenty in all, whose only excitement in history occurred during the present war—the destruction of the German cruiser Emden by the Australian battleship Sydney, off the Cocos coast.

King Ross was the third of his line. In 1823, an English adventurer named Alexander Haro settled in the islands with a number of slaves given him by an Indian potentate. Two years later Ross, a Scotchman, rediscovered the islands and determined to colonize them. He returned in 1827 with a party of Scotch and found Haro in possession. The two factions settled by dividing the islands equally. Finally, however, the natives swore allegiance to Ross and he and his descendants have ruled their story-book kingdom ever since.

Interpersed with palm covered atolls and flanked by reefs of pink coral, the picturesque little group of islands is more like a scene from a musical comedy than anything else. In 1856 the British government extended protection to the Cocos. In 1865 Parliament sent a commission to investigate conditions there. When the British warship with the commission on board steamed into the lagoon at Direction Island, the inhabitants and the king and his court welcomed them just like a comic-opera-South-

Washington, Jan. 25 (By United Press).—The latest German note on the Lusitania incident reached the white house having been sent to the state department by Ambassador Bernstorff. It was officially stated that the announcement that the German note meets all of the United States demands "was purely supposition and unjustified by the facts." It was revealed that the note was delivered to Secretary of State Lansing by Ambassador Bernstorff Saturday and by Lansing to President Wilson yesterday. The latter today placed it before his cabinet.

The most important features of stories to which the state department is understood to object are those telling that Germany has refrained from mentioning her warning to United States citizens to stay off the Lusitania and her modification of her refusal to concede wrong doing on the part of the submarine commander.

NEW CAMPAIGN FROM AIR INAUGURATED BY TEUTONS

Four German Raids on English Ports
Mark Beginning of Campaign

London, Jan. 25. (By United Press).—Four German raids on English channel ports in 48 hours and the bombardment of numerous villages behind the French line, marked the inauguration of a new teuton campaign from the air. An official statement of the admiralty today reported a raid of two German aeroplanes on the French sea port of Dunkirk at six o'clock this morning.

The admiralty added that a German aeroplane, possibly one of those engaged in the Dunkirk attack, was shot down by a British aviator at eight o'clock at Neuport, 25 miles from Dunkirk and a short distance from the German line. The Dunkirk raid followed two bombardment expeditions to English coast towns and an attempted attack on Dover yesterday afternoon in which the German was driven off by British airmen. The type of machine used by the teutons in their latest attacks has not been reported in official statements issued in London or Berlin.

One of the greatest productions of the age, "LES MISERABLES" at the Avon, Tuesday, Feb. 1, in 9 reels.

Sea-Island-King would be expected to do.

The Palace was thrown open to the Europeans; and the royal family, its retinue and Malay servants in their all was at the disposal of the men from civilization.

All the people of the island group are of more than ordinarily powerful physique, muscular and lithe; quite Jack Londonish, in fact. The brown skinned natives speak their own language with a Scottish accent. The white royalty speaks the native tongue too. Even the King himself knew little of the English tongue that his forefathers used. The chief industry is copra and coral gathering. There is no metal money. The King decided at first that Money is the Root of All Evil, so he issued cards and not too many of them. The Kingdom is administered on model lines. The King makes his own laws, polices his domain and provides everything for his subjects.

The cruiser Emden was sunk off the islands, the survivors of the crew commandeered the royal yacht and embarked for Sumatra. Aside from this, the only other excitement the islands have had is cyclones. The natives, King, royalty and all, outmaneuver nature on these occasions by rushing into the lagoons and standing in water up to their necks until the blow subsides.

CRYSTAL SPRINGS CLUB CONSTRUCTS LARGE DEER PARK

N W Park Will Greatly Add to Beauty and Attractiveness of Club's Grounds

Park When Completed Will Cost
$1500—Crystal Springs Will Have Most Complete Sporting Club in
This Section of the State.

The Crystal Springs Rd and Gun club have started work on the construction of a large deer park on their lands in the mountains, which when completed will make the holdings of the club one of the most attractive spots of the picturesque mountains. The camp as it now stands is the finest in this region, being equipped with all the modern improvements of a city home. The deer park which is now under construction is situated directly in front of the lodge which will afford the visitors an excellent view. It consists of thirty acres of wooded land and will be enclosed with a twelve foot fence of wire. It is the intention of the committee in charge to purchase eight deer, 2 bucks and six does, and place them in the park. In five years the number of deer will be about forty.

This park will be the first one of its sort in this section and the only one within a radius of fifty miles, the nearest one being situated at Westover. The work is under the supervision of a committee composed of F. C. Harris, H. P. Dowler, Leslie Stewart and George M. Reiser. Mr. Dowler being a civil engineer and having much experience in such work, has chosen an ideal location for the park and has worked out in detail the plans for it.

The blue prints, plans and specifications are now in the hands of the committee in charge. The estimate cost of the construction of this new feature of the club is about $1500. It will greatly add to the value of the property of the association which is now valued at $1000.

The property of the club consists of four hundred acres of fine land upon which is found the best hunting and fishing on the mountain. The club house is the most modern of any sporting club in central Pennsylvania, being equipped with all the modern conveniences and other modern improvements which are found in few of the hunting camps. The lodge is a large frame building, thirty two feet square with large porches on three sides.

Already a large fish pond has been constructed in which there is now over two thousand large brook trout, the sizes ranging from eight to fourteen inches. The pond which was about five feet in diameter and constructed of concrete. Three years ago 2000 trout were placed in the pond but numerous difficulties have been met with in the breeding of them.

The water for the building is obtained from a large concrete reservoir which is supplied by one of the largest springs on the mountain side. The grounds and lodge are kept in fine order by Peter Raleigh and wife who live in it.

The deer park is expected to be completed about the first of April. With the deer park, the fish pond and the modern building, the Crystal Spring club will be one of the most attractive and picturesque in this section of the state.

LARGE PERCENTAGE OF GIRLS WORK IN INDUSTRIAL PLANTS

Reports Show Nearly Three Million Girls Are Engaged in Various Pursuits

Largest Number are Employed in Clothing Factories—Over Fifty Thousand Work in Textile Establishments.

Harrisburg, January 25.—Almost 10 percent of all women and girls over 14 years old in Pennsylvania were employed in 20,571 industrial establishments that submitted reports to the bureau of statistics and information of the department of labor and industry during 1914.

The reports show that 2,162,999 females, of whom 14,187 were between the ages of 14 and 16, were on the payrolls of Pennsylvania industrial plants. This record does not include every industrial plant within the state and completely excludes mercantile establishments and professional offices where many thousands of women are employed. The Federal census report for 1910 set forth that there were at that time approximately 2,500,000 females in Pennsylvania over 14 years of age.

According to the statistics compiled for 1914 under direction of Labor Commissioner John Price Jackson, there are 67,166 women in this state engaged in the manufacture of clothing. More women are employed in that industry than in any other.

Textile establishments employ 56,253 women; tobacco factories 24,395; food and kindred products establishments, 11,198; metal plants, 10,611; laundries, 8121; printing plants, 7806; leather and rubber goods mills, 6647; paper and paper products factories, 6369; chemical works, 3227; clay, glass and stone industries, 1877; wood working plants, 1957; industries allied with building trades, 660; agriculture, forestry and fisheries, 363; liquors and beverage production, 262; mines and quarries, 60; engineering and laboratory service, 22. In addition to that classification there are 8538 women engaged in miscellaneous industrial employments.

Under the classification for clothing manufacture, 27,930 women make hosiery; 7621 make men's furnishings goods, 3567 men's other forms of apparel and 5870 work on women's clothing. Corset manufacture keeps 929 women employed.

In the various industrial pursuits, 1209 women aid in the making of patent medicines; 145 help make brick and tile; 356 manufacture glass bottles; 4291 make candy; 1462 pickle, preserves, and canned fruit and vegetables; 393 do engraving; 4530 make boots and shoes; 821 build cigar boxes; 270 work on coffin manufacture; 1050 make umbrellas and parasols; 2138 are engaged in machinery manufacture; 399 make needles, pens, hooks and eyes; 453 make watches and clocks; 22863 women made cigars while 1090 rolled cheroots and stogies.

SERVICES TO GOVERNMENT PATRIOTIC SHOWMAN OFFERS

Sword Swallower Would Enlist in the Marine Corps in Case of War

Chicago, Ills., Jan. 25.—As a proof to friends of his unhyphenated devotion to the land of his adoption, Signor Gregorio Carcutti, a sword-swallower and cannon-ball juggler well-known to thousands of side-show followers, today offered his services to the United States Marine corps in the event of this country being plunged into a foreign war.

Sergeant Louie W. Putnam, of the local recruiting office of the Marine corps of South State street, received Carcutti's application and entered the patriotic showman's name on his list of possible war-time volunteers. "Now if we could only get Bosco, who eats 'em alive, to volunteer," Sergeant Putnam mused, "I'd feel that the United States Marine corps was pretty well prepared for any eventuality."

FAIR COMMITTEE ADOPTS PLAN FOR CARRING ON WORK

Will Secure Signatures on Instrument Negotiable at Local Bank

Guarantors Will be Obligated Only to Contribute Pro-Rata in Case Deficit Falls Below Total Amount of Guarantee.

The finance committee named by the chamber of commerce to secure a sufficient guarantee for the Agricultural Fair to be held here next fall, met and organized yesterday, electing George McLaughlin as chairman. It was the opinion of the committee that no difficulty will be experienced in securing the necessary signatures to the guarantee, and it was agreed to begin work immediately following the meeting of the general fair committee next Friday morning.

The tentative plan adopted by the finance committee is to secure responsible signatures to an instrument upon which funds can be negotiated at the local banks sufficient to carry forward the preliminary work of the fair, to be repaid out of moneys received by the fair association. No cash contribution will be asked of the guarantors, who will agree only to make up any deficit existing at the close of the fair. Then they obligated only to contribute pro-rata, and not the full amount of the subscription if the deficit falls below the total amount of the guarantee.

A sub-committee composed of Albert Bigler, Wm. M. Poyce and C. P. Jacobs was named to meet Friday with the general committee composed of representatives from the Agricultural society, Farmers Grange, the Chamber of Commerce, and a committee of citizens.

At the Friday meeting final plans for the organization of a fair association will be laid before the committee.

What Makes So Many Families Like Golden Sun?

Some like it for its flavor, some for its uniformity, some for the absence of the bitter taste sometimes found in coffee, and every body likes its popular price.

At first these remarks will undoubtedly appeal to you. But there's a bare possibility that Golden Sun Coffee will satisfy you no more than the one you now drink. If you are fully satisfied, don't change; if you are not, try our brand of Golden Sun Coffee.

No one coffee can suit all tastes, but nine families in ten who try it prefer this Golden Sun Coffee—the chance is that you will, too. But you can't tell until you try it. Golden Sun Coffee is steel cut by the Golden Sun process. Ask your grocer for it.

SHIPYARDS BESIEGED WITH ORDERS FROM BELLIGERENTS

Ships Cannot be Delivered for Three or Four Years by Yards

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—Shipyard yards along the Delaware River have contracts so far ahead that ships can not be promised under two or three years.

It is said to be the first time in the history of this port that the shipbuilders have been unable to accept orders for delivery within the usual period. The amount of work now in the yards is estimated at more than $50,000,000 and a number of contracts about to be closed brings the total far above this sum.

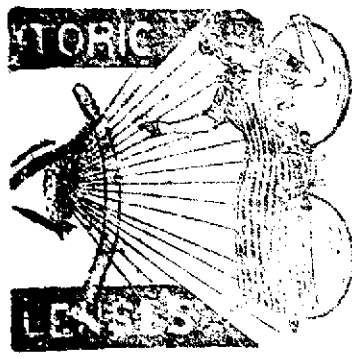

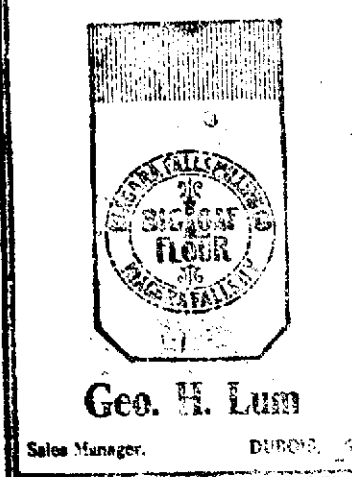

Export shipments of bituminous coal from Philadelphia during the month of December were 67,835 tons. To Cuba were sent 36,714 tons, to Martinique, 10,634; Argentine, 3,461; Brazil, 11,156; Porto Rico, 2,100 and Italy, 2,850.

The Philadelphia textile mills report a good volume of business on hand, are working on profitable contracts and expect a good season. In most cases the mills are working to full capacity.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburg Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a teaspoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grippe, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus creating a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

TO SETTLE METHODIST DISPUTE

Baltimore, Jan. 25.—Who founded the first Methodist society in America? This is the question to settle which official representatives of the three Methodist denominations in the United States have assembled in this city for a three days' conference. The question has long been in dispute. Maryland claims that the honor of having founded the first Methodist society in America belongs to Robert Strawbridge, who was a resident of this state. Rival claims have been set up by New York in behalf of Philip Embury, of that state. Dr. John P. Goucher, president of the American Methodist Historical Society, will present the Strawbridge side for Maryland. The Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, president of the New York Methodist Historical Society, will present New York's claims for Embury.
